Lab3 IMP

What kind of problems web sockets solve? In what kind of situations you should use them?

The web socket solve the low latency problems for some application and server-client connection, it's use for direct chat application or multiplayer online games or the other applications which need real time update.